DocPoint Free Download is an archive utility for Microsoft Office documents, e-mails and PDF files. It is a cabinet app that allows users to create virtual folders to organize and archive its records, with many options for browsing all types of digital and paper information. Users will be able to assign documents, PDFs and e-mails to internal, outgoing and incoming catalogues and will be able to create separate favorites for reading them back or organizing them to different documents, based on their nature. The software will offer several options that will allow users to classify documents and e-mails: keywords or categories, order of selection, their position in document collection hierarchy, as well as short descriptions or long notes, based on the user's need for archiving. DocPoint offers a functional interface: a minimal design that can be extended by the user with advanced customization options, such as the setup of profile / language, views and standard document labels (templates). Users will also be able to create email filters and reports for overview of incoming and outgoing messages or records in particular categories. A powerful email extractor is also available, which will extract selected text and/or images from incoming and outgoing messages. The software can be integrated with Microsoft Office, and will offer users additional functionality, such as the ability to save documents and e-mails to a single file or to the user's preferred folder. Its features are not limited to its integration with Office, with advanced options that will enable users to split all their documents to different PDFs (or to PDF, EPUB and CHM or EPUB and HTML). Sharing contents for up to 256 files is the main feature, with the possibility of using peer-to-peer connections or FTP services for that. System Requirements: Windows 10, 8.1 and 8, with Service Pack and newer versions installed; Office 365 subscription is recommended. Type of purchase: Free. Quantum Data Recovery (QDR) is a utility for recovery of lost or damaged partitions, making use of an active list of the most common file types, related to the kind of problem a user might encounter. It will recommend all the necessary programs for a user's PC, and will be able to offer recommendations that will minimize the time and effort that a user needs to spend. This application is offered for free and comes in the form of a freeware. Users can try this solution on a free trial mode for 30 days. However, the trial mode will include only

What's New in the DocPoint?

We were interested in finding a software that provides the functions of a virtual archive that would allow us to manipulate our documents in a consistent manner. These files are scattered on multiple disks and folders. The system offered on this site has all our desired functionalities and capabilities. We have created a main archive cabinet and a secondary internal archive. DOCUPTION'S FEATURES * Search: allows you to search your documents and scans in any record. If it is a PDF file, the search is based on the words used in the file. If it is a scanned image, it is based on the colors used in the image. * Characteristic: allows you to classify your documents according to certain criteria. For example, you can classify as "Records" or "Incoming/Outgoing". * Archive cabinet: allows you to create different cabinets for your documents. You can also create a secondary archive for a larger number of documents. The secondary archive folder will automatically appear in your main cabinet when you open a new document. * Characteristic: allows you to classify your documents according to certain criteria. For example, you can classify as "Records" or "Incoming/Outgoing". * Documents: Allows you to mark your documents as read or unread, as well as to classify them according to certain criteria. You can classify your documents as incoming, outgoing or both. * Deletion: allows you to delete a record from any cabinet. * Archiving: allows you to automatically delete your records after a certain period (days, weeks, months, years). This allows you to achieve a greater space management. * Duplicate documents: allows you to duplicate a document or scan in a new cabinet folder. This allows you to store a duplicate of your documents. * Retrieve information: allows you to automatically extract information from any type of document in order to insert it into an email. * A calendar: allows you to schedule your daily activities, vacations, etc. You can also block out recurring dates. * A speaker: allows you to store and organize all your documents (documents, emails, scans, etc.) in a virtual cabinet. * Sent: allows you to view the list of your emails. * The email extractor: allows you to automatically extract the information from your emails. * Smartmail: allows you to send your email in a "confidential mode" or with a personal
